How much do the Golden Globes statuettes weigh and what are they made from?

By Sarah Gambles | sgambles@deseretnews.com | Jan 10, 2023, 9:49pm EST

Gina Rodriguez poses in the press room with the award for Best Actress in a Television Series — Musical or Comedy for “Jane the Virgin” at the 72nd annual Golden Globe Awards at the Beverly Hilton Hotel on Sunday, Jan. 11, 2015, in Beverly Hills, Calif.
The Golden Globes premiered Tuesday night with all the usual glitz and glam. Each year, multiple stars who win the awards will hold the statuette above their head in celebration. Is it a hard feat to accomplish?

How much do the Golden Globes weigh?

The statuettes are heavy. The current statuettes weigh 7.8 pounds and are 11.5 inches tall with a 3.5 inch square base, according to Diario AS.

RELATED

Winners at the Golden Globes 2023

New York trophy designer and manufacturer Society Awards has crafted the Golden Globes statuette since 2009. They are not full gold, but they are electroplated in gold. They are mainly composed of marble and zinc, MarketWatch reported.

Each statuette can take 12 to 20 hours to craft, and Society Awards makes about 100,000 trophies each year, per MarketWatch.

The entire statue-making process takes around three to four months, according to the “Today” show.

“When Society Awards crafts a Golden Globe statuette it is a mixture of technology in the casting and electroplating process and hand artisanship in the finishing and construction,” Society Awards CEO David Moritz told the “Today” show.

When did the Golden Globes start?

The awards show began in 1943 and was founded by eight journalists, “all of whom were passionate about judging Hollywood productions for foreign audiences,” LA Magazine reported.
and television. Its humble beginnings allow for a looser format and lack the austerity and rigidity of other awards ceremonies like the Academy Awards.

RELATED

Angela Bassett wins Golden Globe for ‘Black Panther: Wakanda Forever,’ makes history for Marvel

Brendan Fraser did not attend the Golden Globes — he was nominated for ‘The Whale’

---

Next Up In Utah

10th Circuit Court considers whether Salt Lake officers were justified in Palacios shooting

Microsoft will reportedly announce round of layoffs

Want the black curtains to come up at the Huntsman Center? Fill up the lower bowl first

An immigrant’s journey from deportation to citizenship

Police report from slain Enoch family details allegations of abuse, controlling behavior

Should lawmakers give Utah judges a 20% pay raise?

---

Most Popular

!Image
Seven caskets in southern Utah: ‘In our community, we are strong and we are here for each other’